Once logged on to Entire Operations, the user is presented with the Main Menu. When the user selects an option, he or she will see either a submenu of functions, or a list of items that can be maintained using line commands and PF keys.

The configuration of the Main Menu may vary from user to user depending on the authorizations in his or her user profile.

Your own applications can be included in the Main Menu as well, thus saving you tedious logging on and off. In the example above, Entire Output Management is Option 21.
