This command is for Mainframes only.

With the system command AIV, you can view all application-independent variables (AIVs) which are currently active.

On the list displayed, you can mark an AIV with the command DI to display the content of the AIV.

You can display the content in alphanumeric or hexadecimal form. To switch from alphanumeric to hexadecimal display and vice versa, you use PF10 and PF11.

For information on the definition of AIVs, see the DEFINE DATA statement as described in the Natural Statements documentation and the section User-Defined Variables in the Natural Statements documentation.
